a higher civilian I/O figure as compared to the estimated average employment figure used in the budget. Some offsetting reduction is reflected in the military personnel costs.

4. A review of the FY 1956 personal service obligations and the rate of obligations indicates that sufficient savings can be made to finance the proposed I/O for the rest of FY 1956. The increased cost in FY 1957 will need to be financed from internal savings and program adjustments although a lessening of the civilian I/O to the average employment figure estimated in the budget and savings in military personnel costs could reduce the increased cost to around 100,000.

5. The proposed I/O is less than the current personnel ceiling so this is not a factor in this review. On the financing requirements the I/O is approved as to available funds in 1956 and in 1957 provided internal adjustments and savings are planned to cover the increased cost.

6. The proposed I/O is returned herewith for your use.
